

MOON LEE FERGUSON

WRITER · DIRECTOR · PRODUCER

Moon Lee Ferguson is a Chinese-Jamaican filmmaker based in Fort Lauderdale. She is known for her viral, award-winning fantasy series, Juju: The Web Series, which made her a finalist for the Comcast Black Experience on Xfinity $100,000 award. Her passion for storytelling stems from her childhood love for Florida's history and mysticism, and needing an escape as a young girl due to her tumultuous upbringing. Since 2019, Moon has gone on to write, direct, and produce many other projects in the genre space, such as Dark Before Dawn (a supernatural-thriller), Robyn Hood (a horror-comedy), starring Gail Bean of Snowfall, and Criblore, A Horror Anthology, cinematic book of fairy tales rooted in South Florida culture.

Moon's most recent project is her proof of concept short film titled, Skettel. It follows a single mother and her daily struggle to take care of her special needs son. The film is based on Moon's real life as a teen and single mom desperately wanting to find herself while caring for a special needs child.
